Center for Latino/a and Latin American Studies "CLLAS Research Series: Graduate Student Projects"

Going Well:

Grantees gain professional development, valuable feedback, and a welcoming intellectual community.

Project Description:

CLLAS supports the summer research of 8-10 graduate students studying Latinx and Latin American Studies. CLLAS grantees present on their research and put their work into conversation with faculty and graduate students across disciplines. Grantees also contribute an article to the CLLAS newsletter.

Lesson Learned:

Supporting interdisciplinary research reveals the academic excellence of UO graduate students, who are asking compelling questions, conducting important research, and contributing to their fields.

Challenge:

The conference-style grantee events require more robust promotion to build campus-wide engagement.
